

Clemson's Championship Tradition

In 1994, Tony Wheeler, as a freshman, brought home the World Junior Championship gold medal for his performance in the 200m dash, a gold medal for his performance on the 4x400m relay squad, and the silver medal for his performance as a member of the 4x100m relay.

The 1995 campaign was successful for Pollock as well, with another national champion in Duane Ross in the 110mHH. Add to that the success of Carlton Chambers, who won a gold medal in the 1996 Summer Olympic Games, as a member of the Canadian 4x100m relay squad, and you can see the 1990s has been a decade of champions at Clemson.

In 1997 and 1998, Clemson won both the ACC indoor and outdoor championships. Shawn Crawford won the 200m national championship at the 1998 indoor meet.

The Tigers won the 1999 ACC Indoor Title, taking first place in nine events. Ato Modibo became Clemson's youngest national champion, winning the 400m indoors as a freshman. The 4x400m relay team of Modibo, Davidson Gill, Kenny Franklin and Charles Allen also won the national championship, helping Clemson to a third-place finish at the 1999 NCAA Indoor Meet.

In 2000, the Tigers won both the ACC Indoor and Outdoor Titles. Shawn Crawford became the most decorated track athlete ever with 11 All-American honors as he won the 200m at the NCAA Indoor and Outdoor Championships and set an indoor American record of 20.26.

The Tigers won the 2001 ACC Indoor and Outdoor Championships, giving head coach Bob Pollock a total of 19 conference titles.

Clemson recorded two top-10 finishes in 2002, including an all-time best finish of fourth at the NCAA Outdoor Championships and a seventh-place finish at the NCAA Indoor Championships. Two Tigers finished as the NCAA Runner-ups, and the 4x100m relay team placed second in that event as it set a Clemson and ACC-record time. The Tigers also won the ACC Indoor Championship, giving head coach Bob Pollock his 20th conference title.

The 2003 Tigers were the ACC Indoor and Outdoor Runner-ups, and eight Clemson student-athletes earned All-America honors. At the 2004 ACC Outdoor Championships, the Tigers once again made history as they set the all-time scoring record for the conference meet with 224 points. It was the 11th outdoor ACC title for Clemson, and the 30th overall. At the 2004 Olympic Games, Shawn Crawford captured the 200m title, to bring Clemson's gold medalist count to four.

In 2005, the Tigers won five ACC championships individually. George Kitchens won the long jump both indoor and outdoor, while Adam Linkenauger won the high jump in both seasons. Itay Magidi claimed the 5000m indoor event. The 2006 season was a banner year for field events, as Clemson produced its first-ever All-Americans in the pole vault and triple jump. The Tigers also had All-Americans in the 100m dash, heptathlon, and decathlon. Travis Padgett, a freshman, was fourth at the NCAA Championships after setting school, conference, and region marks in the 100m in 2006.

George Kitchens won All-America honors four times as a long jumper for the Tigers from 2002-05. He had a career-best finish of seventh, which he did twice.

Travis Padgett shattered the Clemson record in the 100m dash in 2006. He won the East Region title in the event after running an amazing 10 seconds flat.

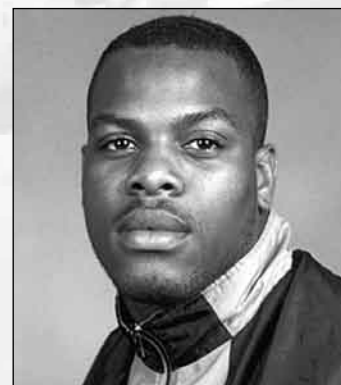

Clemson's Olympic Tradition

The Tigers have been well-represented at the Olympic Games in the last 14 years. Clemson men's track and field has had 14 student-athletes compete at the Games since 1992, and the Tigers have brought home numerous medals. The highlights of the Tigers' Olympic performances include gold medals by Shawn Crawford in the 200m in 2004, Mark McKoy in the 110m hurdles in 1992, as well as Carlton Chambers' gold medal as a member of Canada's 4x100m relay team in 1996.

In 1992, Michael Green, Terrance Herrington, Anthony Knight, Mark McKoy and James Trapp represented Jamaica, the United States and Canada in Barcelona, Spain. Carlton Chambers, Cormac Finnerty and Michael Green competed for Canada, Ireland and Jamaica (respectively) in Atlanta, GA, at the 1996 Olympic Games. Most recently, Charles Allen represented Canada, Sultan Tucker competed for Liberia, and Shawn Crawford and Duane Ross represented the USA during the 2004 Olympics.

Shawn Crawford won three individual NCAA Championships during his brilliant career as a Clemson Tiger. He won the indoor 200m dash in 1998 and 2000, and the outdoor 200m in 2000.

The team of Ato Modibo, Davidson Gill, Kenny Franklin, and Charles Allen captured the 1999 NCAA Indoor 4x400m relay title after running a time of 3:07.80 in Indianapolis, IN.

Michael Green was a two-time NCAA Champion in the indoor 55m competition (1992-93). He also won the 1993 outdoor 100m dash.
